A small bodega completes the accommodation at semi-basement level. Returning to the main house, a very attractive granite staircase leads to the first floor which offers 3 bedrooms plus one other room, currently used as a sitting room but which could equally be exploited as a fifth bedroom. A staircase leads from this room to a further room on the second floor which leads out onto a glorious roof terrace hosting stunning views over the Andalucian countryside and over the historic center of Alora pueblo. This property has been refurbished and immaculately maintained by the current owner and offers a spacious family home.
