This very charming detached property was formerly a village school and head mistress house and has been very tastefully converted into a 4 bedroom, 2 bathroom home by the current owners. Set within its own plot of land and enjoying extensive terracing around the house hosting stunning views over the Andalucian countryside, the accommodation is on a split level. The former school room provides a very large 50 m2 lounge which hosts a wood burning stove and 2 double bedrooms, a bar area and a shower room. A few steps lead directly to the former headmistress home which provides a very attractive kitchen/dining room/sitting room which hosts a feature fireplace with wood burning stove and also enjoys air-con heating and cooling. Two further bedrooms and a shower room complete the accommodation. This property offers a very attractive compromise between village and rural living. In addition to the formal garden area around the house there is also half an acre of land planted out with olives, almonds, carob trees. The property enjoys mains electricity, well water and high speed internet connection. This property really exudes lots of charm either offering a very spacious comfortable home or indeed could easily be divided to provide two units of accommodation both offering 2 bedrooms and 1 bathroom.
