This traditional village house does require extensive refurbishment but does enjoy an enviable location in a peaceful but central street of Álora pueblo. Located on an urban plot of 98m², the accommodation currently offered extends to 116m² distributed over 2 levels. At street level one enters from the street into a welcoming reception hall which offers access to a sitting room, a bedroom, kitchen and bathroom. Directly off of the kitchen is a generous patio area which hosts two small outbuildings and enjoys views across Álora pueblo. A staircase leads to the upper level which offers a large landing area and one very large room which was previously two bedrooms. From the 1st floor one can access an expansive terrace which hosts fabulous open views across Álora pueblo to the Andalusian countryside beyond and because of it's South West orientation it enjoys sunshine for most of the day. Although this property does require extensive refurbishment and redistribution of the accommodation, it does have great potential.
