At street level one enters through a very attractive "San Juan" vestibule into a welcoming reception room which leads through to a second sitting room. A fully fitted kitchen leads through to a very attractive bright dining room which enjoys access directly out to a very charming Andalucian patio. A large double bedroom and a WC with washbasin complete the accommodation on this level. A very attractive staircase leads to the first floor which hosts two large double bedrooms, a further room which could be exploited as a dressing room, library or study and a full bathroom complete the accommodation on this level. A further staircase leads to the second level from which hosts an expansive terrace of approx. 30 m<sup>2</sup> off which is a large room, a shower room and toilet and washbasin. A further metal staircase leads to a third level which hosts a small room which could be exploited for a variety of uses and leads to a glorious 20 m<sup>2</sup> sun terrace which hosts virtually 360° views over Alora pueblo to the countryside beyond. This house has been modernized by the current owners during the last decade or so using high quality materials throughout.
