This lower conversion of a large village house enjoys an enviable corner location within El Chorro village just a few metres from El Chorro station. El Chorro has benefited from substantial investment from both central Spanish government and Europe to reinstate and develop the famous “Caminito del Rey” into, what is a major tourist attraction. The scenery is quite breathtaking with some stunning mountains and rock formations. It is a very popular area for tourists who wish to enjoy outdoor pursuits such as walking, bird watching, horse riding, hang gliding, landscape painting and particularly rock climbing. There is a large demand for overnight accommodation. The location of this property would lend itself for exploitation from this. All of the accommodation is on one level and the rooms are all of generous proportions, ideal for redistribution to provide several bedrooms. Currently the accommodation offered is a large reception/lounge leading through to a very large central room off which one can access the two double bedrooms, one of which measures 8x4.5m, the kitchen and bathroom. This property offers excellent development potential in an area which is truly on the way up.
